THE CONCERT PROGRAM

DANCING CLASSROOMS PHILLY WWW.DANCINGCLASSROOMSPHILLY.COM

Dancing Classrooms Philly (DCP) is based on the Dancing Classrooms program in New York City, a highly acclaimed program of the American Ballroom Theater Company, created by Broadway dancer and show-dance champion Pierre Dulaine. DCP was launched in Philadelphia in the Fall of 2007 under the nonprofit, Arts in Schools Collaborative. The mission of the program is to build social awareness, confidence and self-esteem in children through the practice of social dance. Social dance calls on and improves a range of behavioral skills—decision-making, goal-setting, communication, and relationship building—that are proven to provide long-term benefits to health and well-being. The residency takes place in classrooms during the regular school day, and both classroom teachers and all 5th or 8th grade students are required to participate. After completing the residency, interested and talented students may continue to engage their passion for dance in the DCP Saturday Scholars Program which offers a more comprehensive ballroom dancing curriculum. The outstanding students in the Saturday Scholars Program go on to join the Allstars troupe.
